

Braille Bloom

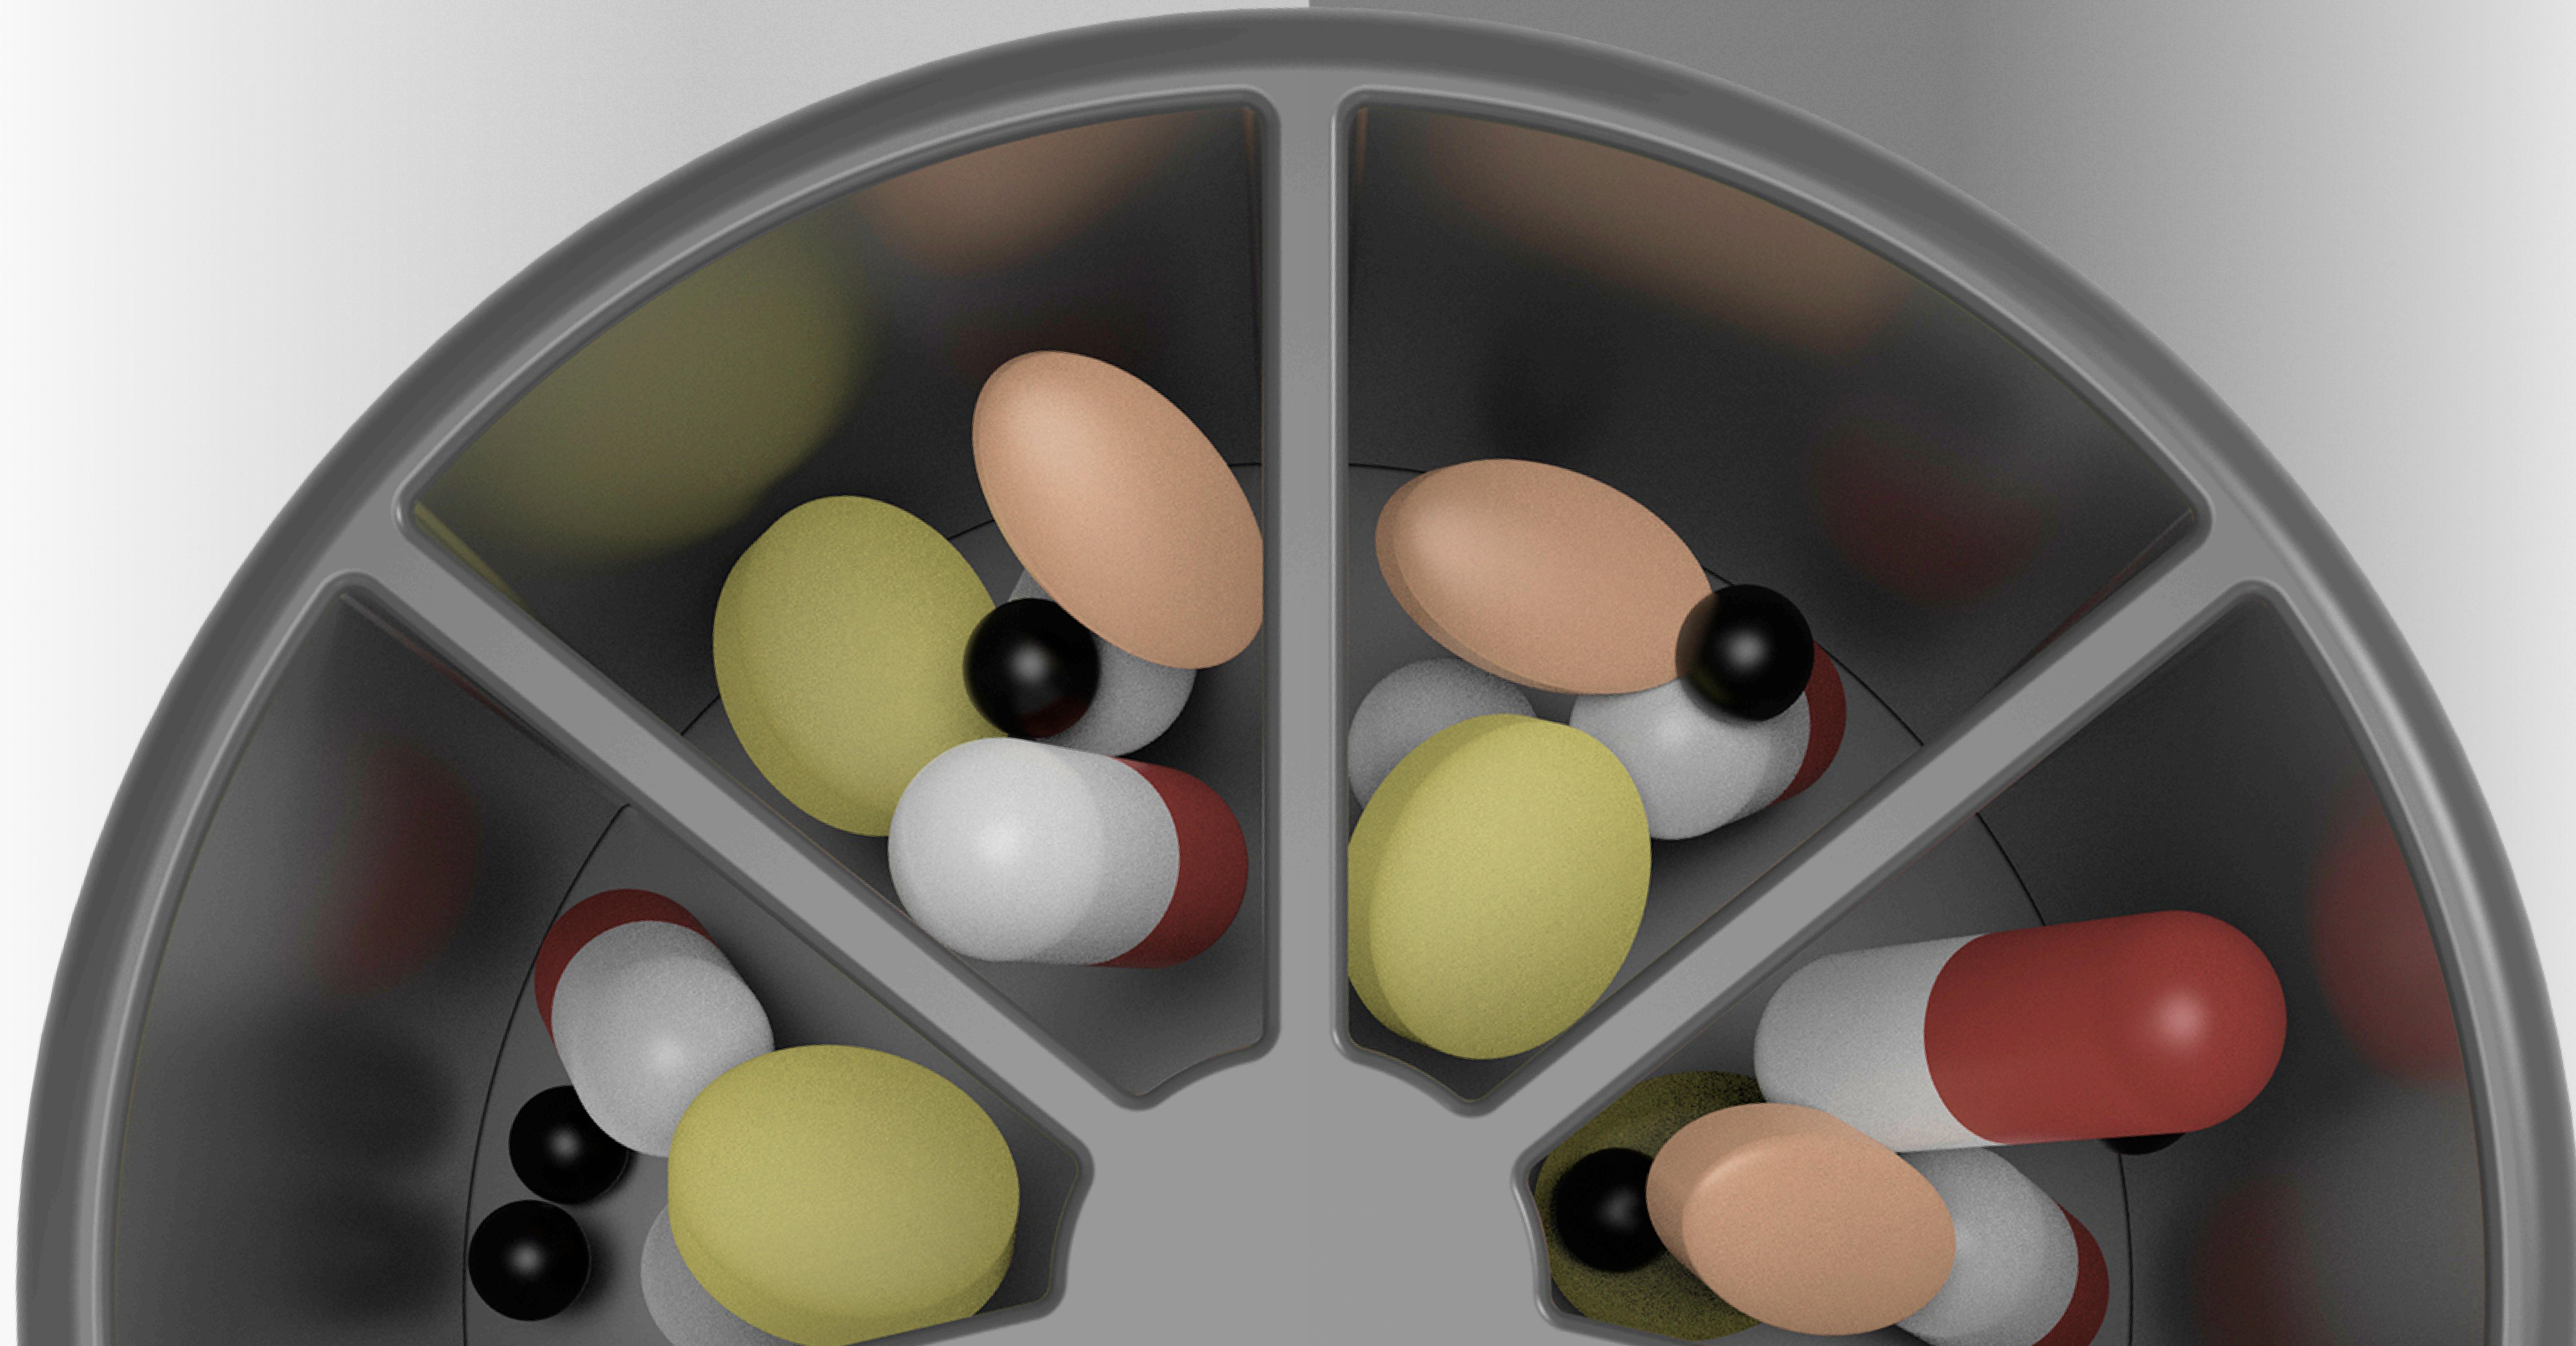

Pain Point Explanation

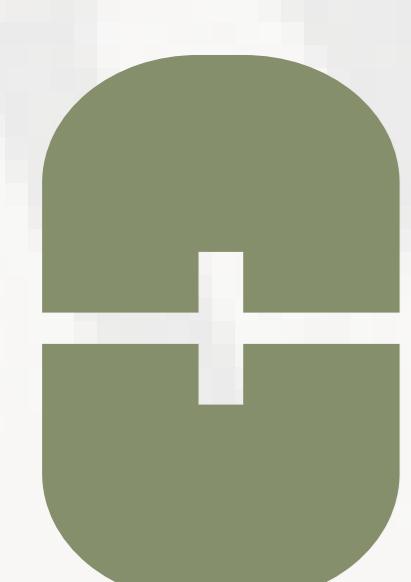

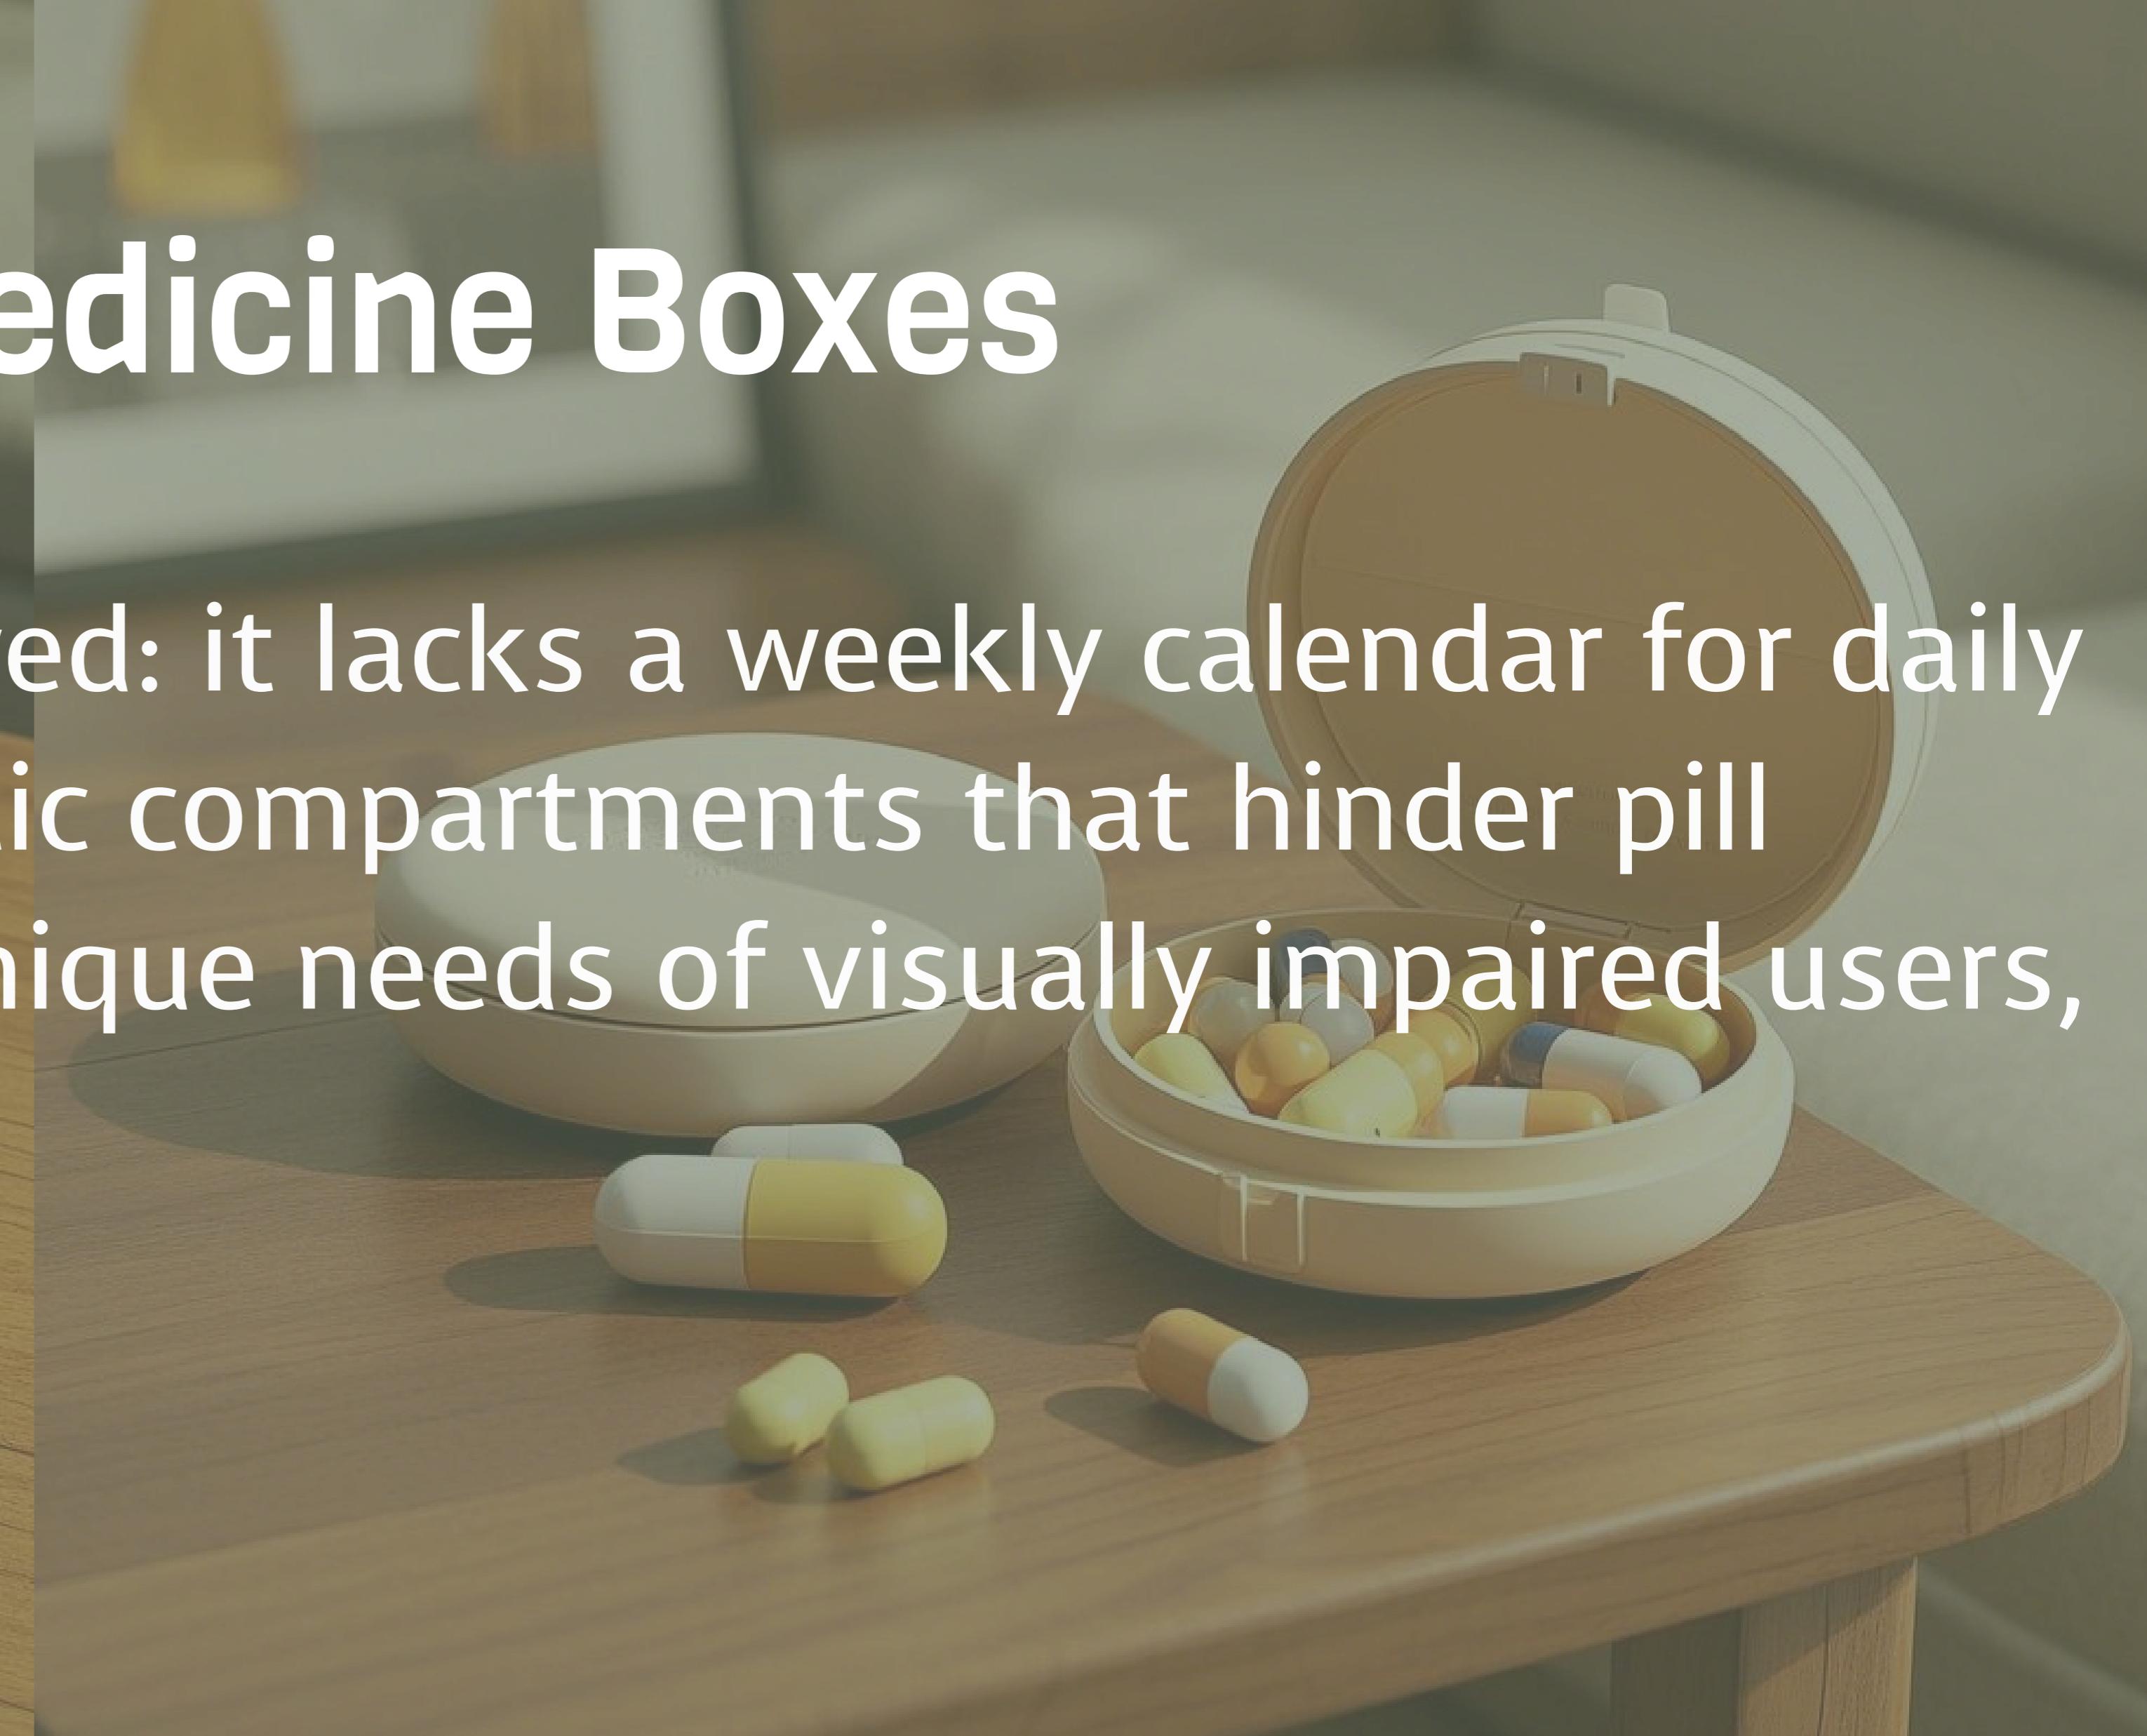

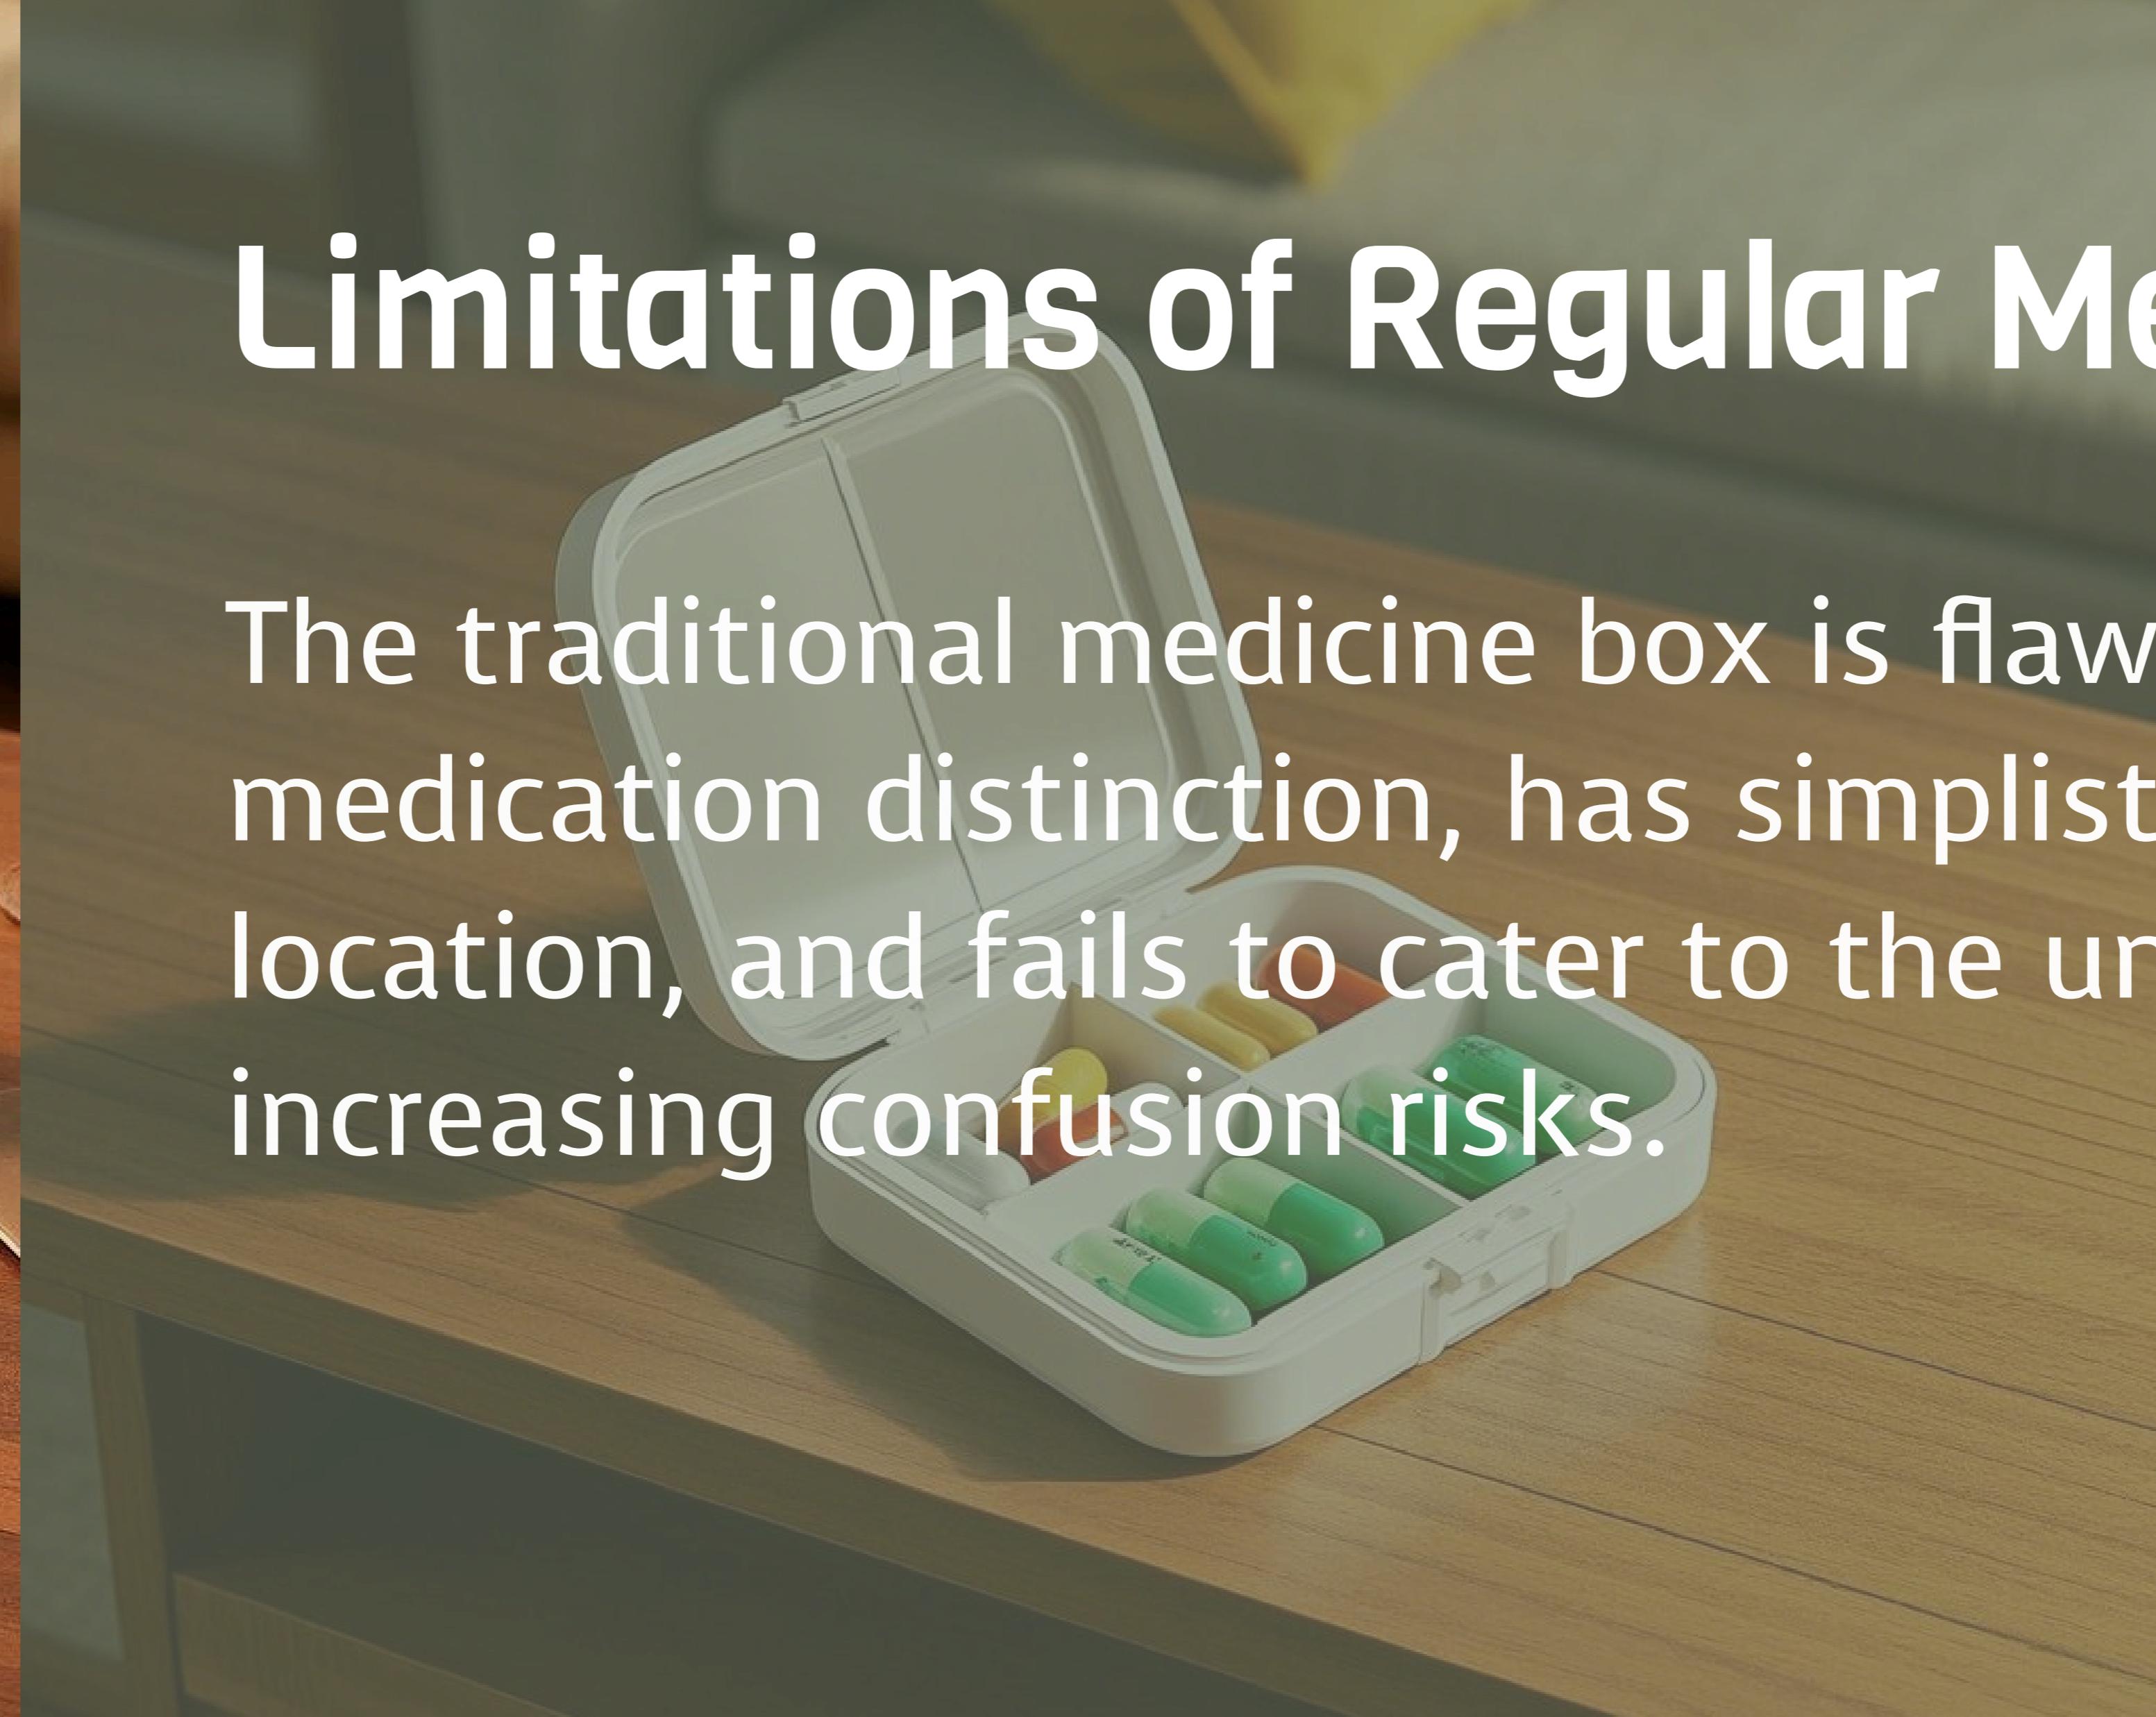

The visually impaired face difficulties in conveniently locating the correct medication among a pile of drugs, which can easily lead to taking the wrong medicine. Additionally, the visually impaired also need to use calendars and perceive the world around them.

By integrating a medicine box with a calendar, we have addressed the pain point of taking medication for the visually impaired while also calling for society's care and attention towards the visually impaired community.

Limitations of Regular Medicine Boxes

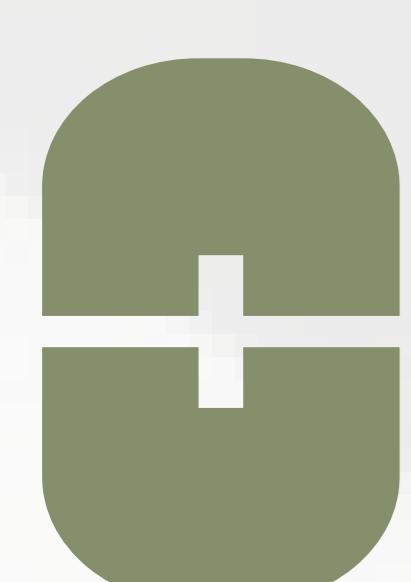

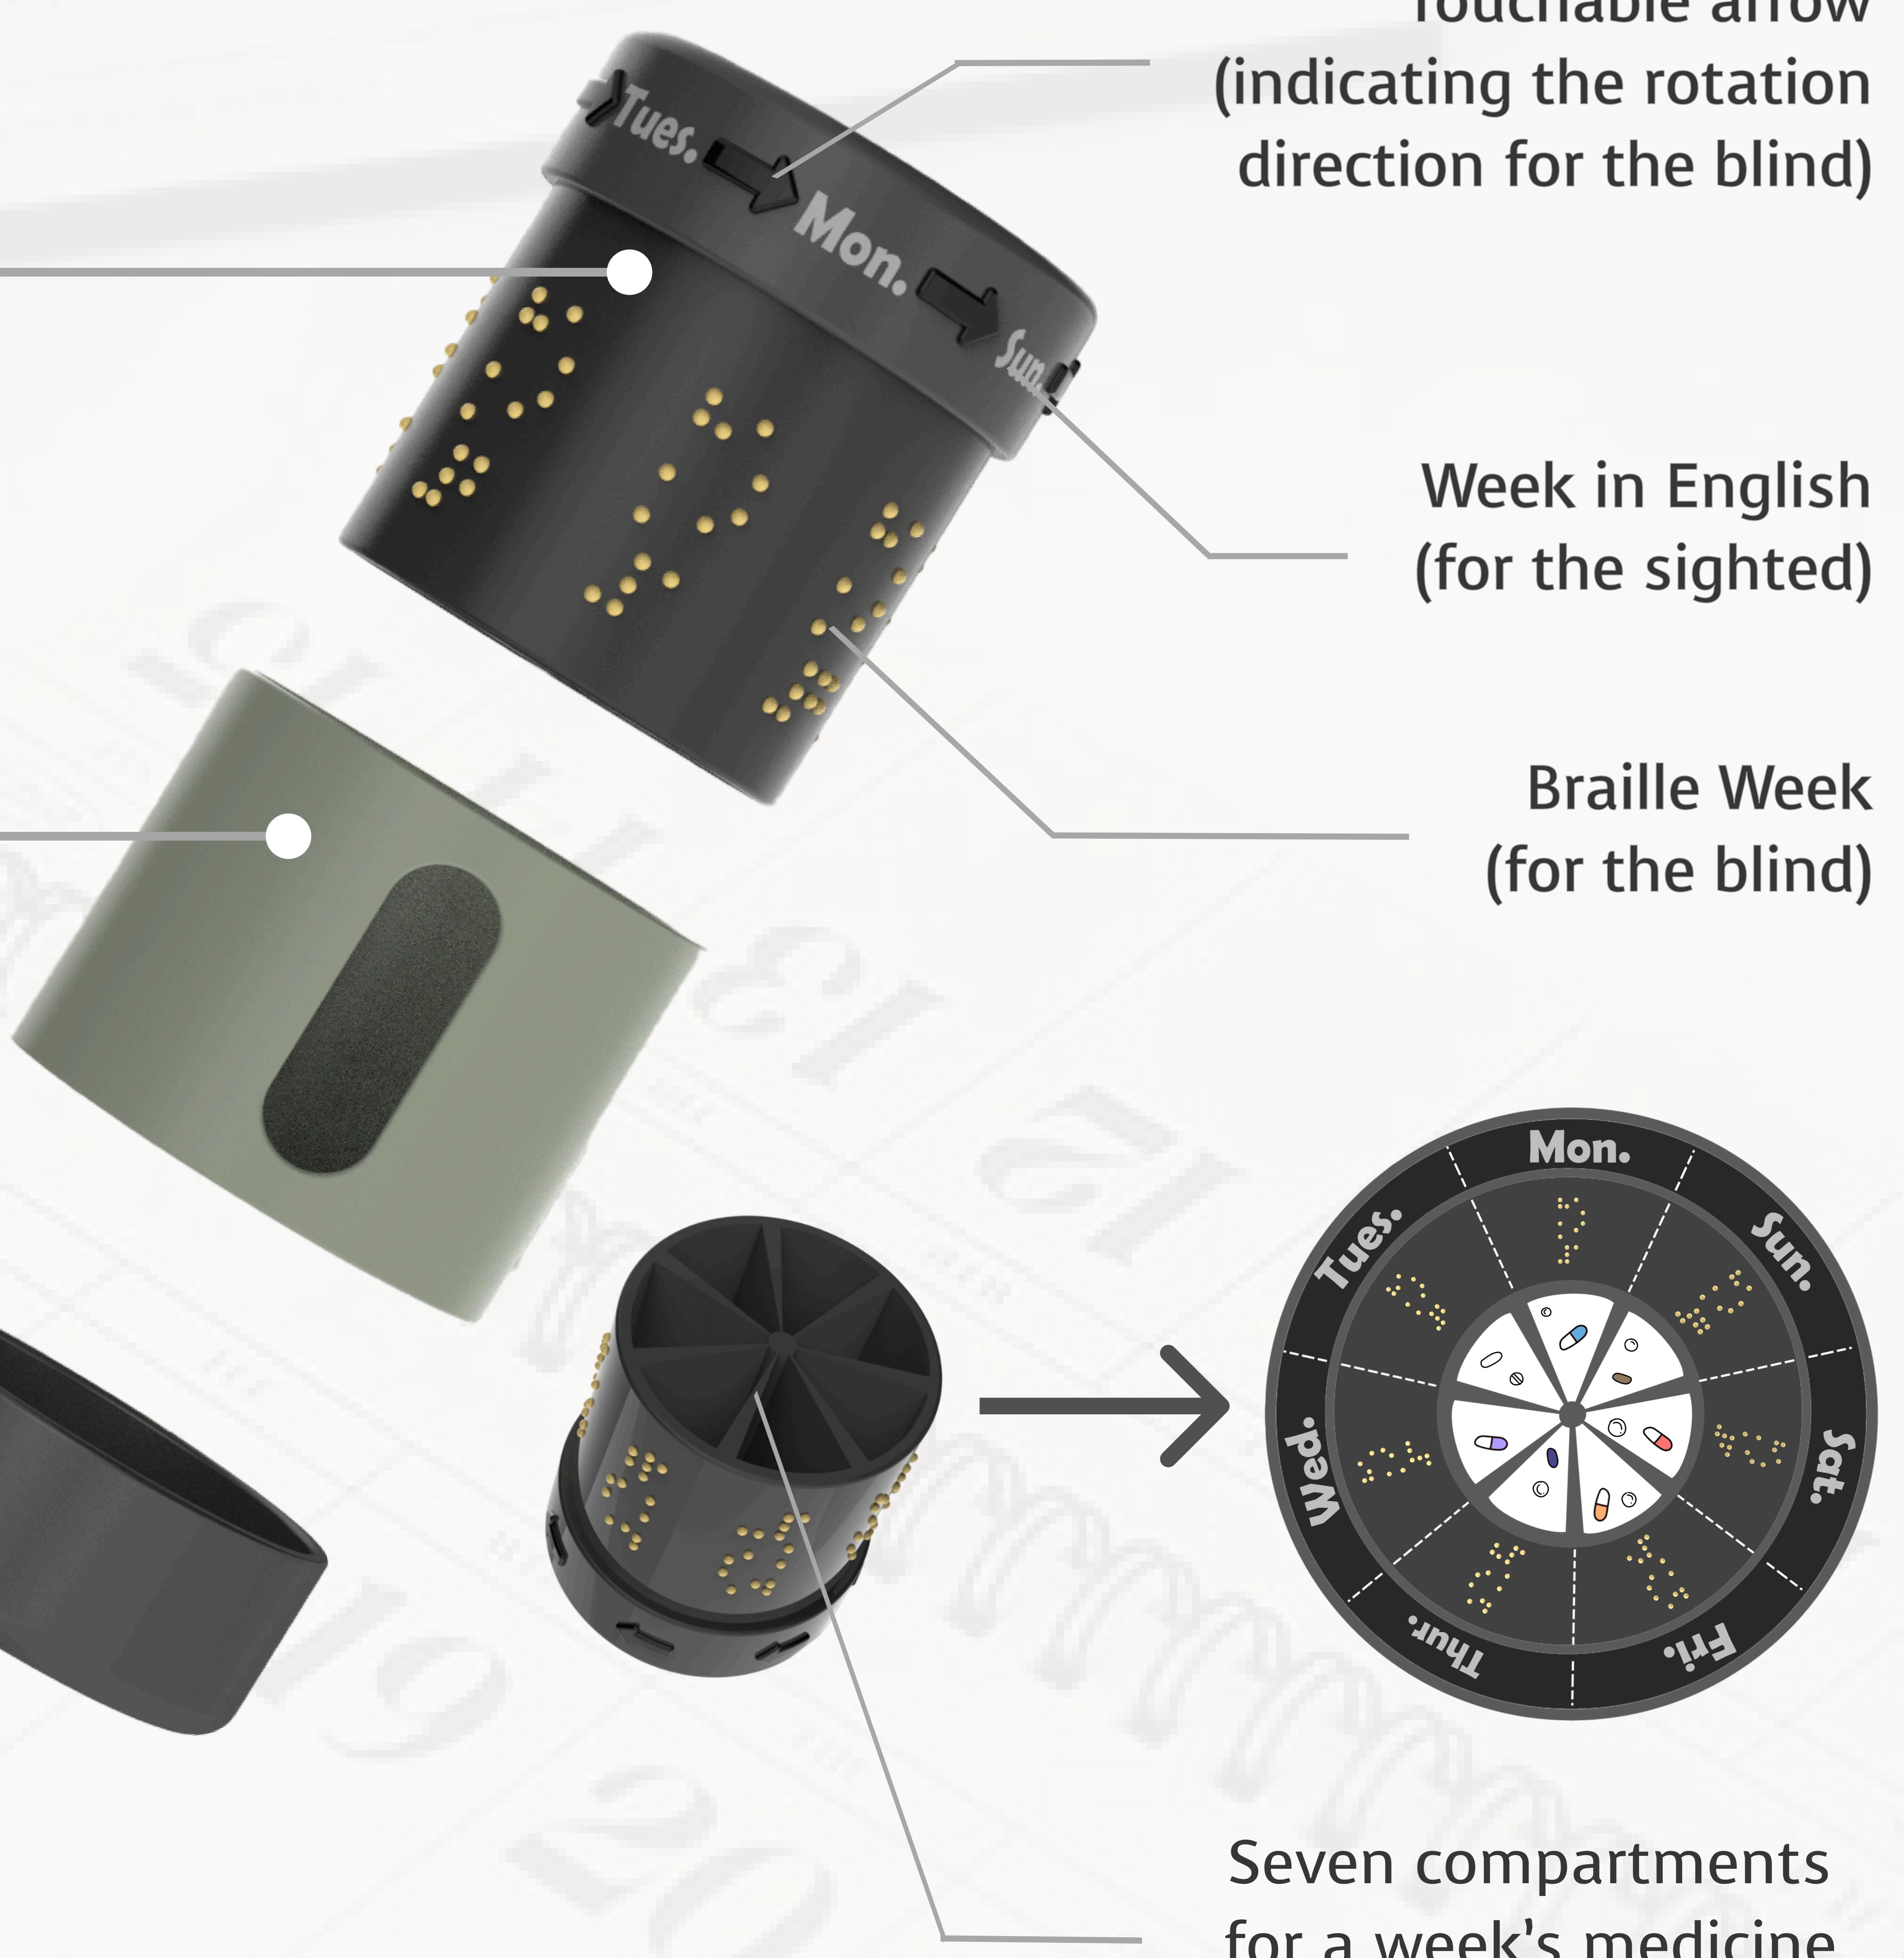

Product Structure

Rotate Weekly Calendar
& Pill Storage Box

Fixed Outer Shell

Pill Receiving Box

Usage Process

